

Basic Brits

by Joanna Castle Miller

KATHERINE

I just can't believe you'd do it is all, without asking me. I mean, London is my thing. Always has been. I'm like, obsessed with it and you know that, Jenny. My cat's name is Winston. I mean, my god. It couldn't be more obvious: I'm the one who gets to throw a British-themed bridal shower. Like, god, Jenny. I've perfected the accent over years of intense study. (sliding into British accent) For years I've studied the country's literature and culture and visited its finest museums and country manors (back to normal) and you? You're like, no offense, but like, you're the souvenir salt and pepper shaker at the Tower of London check-out counter. You're... basic. So throw a shower that suits you better is what I'm saying, like, like I don't know... vintage chic.